WesCourt Advisors, LLC

BIO

I am a well-rounded professional with a history for connecting with people to achieve results. WesCourt Advisors seeks to Empower, Enlighten, and Enrich the professional and personal lives of our clients, and, ultimately, those whom they serve. For the past 30 years, in the areas of education, healthcare, business and government I have utilized and integrated my communication, marketing, training, and teaching skills to empower both students and professionals to engage in purposeful and strategic communication. My focus centers on the process-driven nature of communication; therefore, I demonstrate that messages must be strategic, organized, and audience-centered for maximum impact.

In 2020 in response to the COVID-19 pandemic and the resulting job losses, depleted resources, and services in communities worldwide, I added Grant Writing to the Training and Copyediting services offered through WesCourt Advisors. Our goal is to address this worldwide dilemma by working with Nonprofit Organizations to obtain funding to support and restore communities in the areas of Education, Healthcare, and Affordable Housing. We strive to highlight your organization's ability to improve the conditions, lives, and well-being of those in the communities in which you serve.

My life and professional experiences have equipped me with the necessary tools to position your organization to fund viable programs. I am committed to use the high-level research and excellent communication skills acquired while pursuing my Master of Marketing Communication degree from Florida State University.

I welcome the opportunity to apply my organizational skills, innovative approaches to solving problems, and ability to connect with diverse audiences to assist you in accomplishing your mission. WesCourt Advisors will passionately convey your mission while creating your pathway to funding! Let us show you how!
